

RADIANT EASTER SUNDAY.

ALL THE TOWN GOES TO CHURCH AND ADMIRES ITSELF.

Bright, clear, brilliant breezes, solemn music, imposing ceremonies, and a stroll up the Avenue for Everybody—St. Ann's Collection More than $50,000.

With a clear sky, a radiant sun and a bracing breeze came Easter day, full of brightness and cheer. The city was a scene of religious rejoicing, and the churches were filled with worshippers. The St. Ann's collection was a record, and the Easter service was a triumph.

Years ago Easter marked the close of the winter season, and the people were glad to see the sun and feel the warmth of the spring. The churches were filled with worshippers, and the Easter service was a triumph.

The celebration in the churches was only a part of the holiday. It was a means for the assembling of men and women to look upon one another. It was about noon when the parade began, and the people were glad to see the sun and feel the warmth of the spring. The churches were filled with worshippers, and the Easter service was a triumph.

Toward noon the services in some of the churches came to an end, and the congregations poured out. From then until 1 o'clock Fifth avenue was a scene of religious rejoicing, and the churches were filled with worshippers. The St. Ann's collection was a record, and the Easter service was a triumph.

To one who mingled in it it was a bewildering conglomeration of beauty and color. The churches were filled with worshippers, and the Easter service was a triumph. The St. Ann's collection was a record, and the Easter service was a triumph.

There was one woman, however, who wore a dress of green, and she was a mistake in her case. She was a rather good-looking woman, of medium height, with dark eyes and a pleasant expression. She was a mistake in her case. She was a rather good-looking woman, of medium height, with dark eyes and a pleasant expression.

The parade, streamed up and down the avenue, and the people were glad to see the sun and feel the warmth of the spring. The churches were filled with worshippers, and the Easter service was a triumph. The St. Ann's collection was a record, and the Easter service was a triumph.

The South Carolina Congressmen-elect who are third-party men are still waiting here for an opportunity to refute that charge. Senator Irby, who is conducting the fight in their behalf, says he has in a dignified way asked the President that the organized Democracy of South Carolina be recognized by the Administration. The request for recognition, signed by him and his colleagues, has been referred to the President, and he is waiting for a reply.

The South Carolinians will make another visit to the Post Office Department tomorrow, when they will present a petition which they claim they are entitled to.

Mr. Allan Hooker, son of Congressman Hooker of Mississippi, who was seriously injured last night by being struck by a cable car, said this evening that his father was recovering from his injuries. He said that he was not seriously injured, and that he was recovering from his injuries.

In view of the statements which have appeared during the last two or three days concerning allowances made to different persons employed in various ways in the preparation of the budget, the following is a list of the names of the persons who have received such allowances.

The St. Ann's collection was a record, and the Easter service was a triumph. The St. Ann's collection was a record, and the Easter service was a triumph. The St. Ann's collection was a record, and the Easter service was a triumph.

SNUG HARBOR'S CHAPLAIN.

THE REV. ARTHUR SLOAN TO TAKE CHARGE OF THE NEW CHURCH.

The Rev. Arthur Sloan, who has been appointed as the new chaplain of the Snug Harbor, will take charge of the new church. He is a native of New York, and has been a member of the Episcopal Church for many years. He is a well-known and respected member of the community, and his appointment as chaplain is a great honor.

In its history the Snug Harbor dates back to the very beginning of the century. In the year 1801 Capt. Robert Richard Randall, a famous seaman in his time, died in the city. He owned a farm in what is now known as the Fifteenth ward, his property embracing land in the neighborhood of Broadway, Clinton place, and Fifth avenue. By his will Capt. Randall bequeathed a large portion of his estate to a Board of Trustees, whom he directed to establish a hospital for the aged and infirm. The trustees have since carried out his wishes, and the Snug Harbor is now a well-known and respected institution.

The Rev. John Griggs, an Episcopal clergyman, officiated as chaplain at the Snug Harbor, and he was followed by the Rev. Mr. Quinn, a Presbyterian, who remained but a comparatively short time. He was succeeded by the Rev. Dr. Jones, the late incumbent, who was also a Presbyterian. Dr. Jones was succeeded by the Rev. Dr. Jones, who was also a Presbyterian. Shakespeare's Seven Ages.

SECOND AGE.

And then the whining school boy, with his satchel And shining morning face, creeping like snail Unwillingly to school.

The school boy trudging on to school No longer whines. He nothing lacked In leaving home; for he partook Of Johann Hoff's famed Malt Extract.

Professor Prosper De Pietra Santa of Paris says:

"I regard it of immense value to the practitioner to bring to his aid a nutritious tonic and remedy like the JOHANN HOFF'S MALT EXTRACT, which will act not only as a tonic but as a nutrient as well, and which is less exciting than wine as a stimulant."

Purchasers are warned against imposition and disappointment. Insist upon the Genuine, which must have the signature of "JOHANN HOFF" on the neck label.

A book entitled "Shakespeare's Seven Ages of Man," beautifully illustrated, sent free on application.

AS PRISONERS FROM BRAZIL.

TWO BAD AMERICANS OF THE NORTH BROUGHT BACK.

One is a Bank President, turned Greaser's Clerk and the Other a Clerk Turned Ranchman and Married in Ludlow Street Jail. When the Brazilian Mail steamer Segura from Rio Janeiro came up to her pier at Robert's store in Brooklyn at 7 o'clock yesterday morning there were two men struggling on the deck who attracted particular attention. They were A. Cadwallader, once the President of the National Bank of West Superior, Wis., who skipped his bail while under arrest on a charge of embezzling from $40,000 to $100,000, and H. A. Botsford, formerly Philadelphia representative from Grand Fork on Christmas bar dealers of Cleveland, who is accused of embezzling $20,000. Cadwallader is short and thin. He wore a light suit and a grim smile. Botsford is big and stout, and wore, among other things, a beard and yellow leather boots. He looked as if his breakfast had not suited him. Both men were placed in the struts of a crowd of longshoremen who watched them. They had the run of the deck, but there wasn't a moment that they got from under the eye of a tall and thin clerk, who had them in charge. He was Capt. Charles E. Henn, a detective who had been employed by Gray, Jenks & Co. to catch Botsford, and who had picked up Cadwallader for fun.
